Deeply deposited pigment produces a permanent bluish halo through the skin due to the Tyndall effect.
Physics ruins a perfectly good blackwork design.