

Ageing dermis gradually loses collagen, continually narrowing the safe depth window for tattooing. Structural integrity is purely hypothetical at this stage.