

Ill-fitting jewelry that is excessively tight restricts blood circulation and traps normal secretions within fresh piercings. Some clients prefer the structural integrity of industrial vice grips.