

Plated jewelry features thin surface coatings over base metals that easily wear or chip off inside healing wounds. The gold standard of deception flakes under minimal pressure.