

Studios must divide their floor plans into distinct clean and contaminated zones so cross-contamination is structurally harder.
The morning commute from the waiting room is treacherous.