

Devices manufactured strictly for temporary applications cannot be reliably decontaminated or structurally maintained for subsequent procedures.

The fan is now a magnificent modern art puddle.