

Biological indicators containing highly resistant bacterial spores provide the definitive confirmation that the process achieved total cellular destruction.

Peace, love, and absolute microbial annihilation.