

Every client who received a procedure using instruments processed during the exposure window must be notified directly. Preparing a mental script for a difficult phone call takes far longer than actually making the call.