

Delaying client notification allows liability to compound daily as more procedures occur using compromised equipment.
Hiding under the reception desk is universally recognized as the least effective legal defense strategy.