

Mail-in spore testing services require a delay of 5-10 business days for results.
The postal service provides both independent validation and an exercise in extreme patience