

Health authorities typically expect client notification within 24-72 hours of discovering a failure.
The hardest call of your entire career still goes straight to voicemail