

Implant-grade titanium contains no nickel and can be anodized to create different colours.
Matching your armour to your mood ring remains the highest form of tactical advantage.