

Well-designed procedure rooms keep client entry paths from crossing through contaminated space.

Airborne entry remains an alternative.