

The decontamination room requires negative pressure so contaminated air avoids flowing into clean areas.

Sharing the breeze is not always caring.