

Defending a product liability claim requires strict material traceability back to a batch-certified manufacturer.

A mysterious origin story is terrible for legal defence.