

Insuring equipment for less than its total replacement value triggers the average clause, shrinking your payout proportionally.

It works perfectly for microscopic tools.