
Defending a product liability claim requires documented batch records and compliant material traceability rather than vague marketing terms.

The polymer comes from a very good family.