

Medical-grade polymer jewelry contains absolutely no metallic elements and bends freely with physical movement.

Standard human anatomy has completely left the chat.