

Sensitization to metals is a cumulative process that can trigger a sudden reaction after a prolonged period of asymptomatic wear.
The earlobe has staged a sudden and violent rebellion.