

Dense pigment loads extend healing time because the tissue must resolve massive wound burdens.

He packed ample provisions to wait out the immune response.