

Safety standards prohibit specific blue and green pigments due to missing toxicological safety data.
Plucking every coloured petal ensures absolute regulatory harmony.