
Rotary machines create less skin trauma and promote faster healing compared to traditional coil machines.
Aviation authorities remain skeptical of the new equipment.