

Eczematous skin is highly permeable to irritants and deeply reactive to minor stimuli due to impaired barrier function. The local barrier patrol was known for violently overreacting to unexpected visitors.