

Eczeematous skin features an impaired barrier function making it highly permeable and reactive to minor irritants.

Personal force fields severely complicate stencil placement.