

Thick occlusive ointments can trap heat and sweat, which heavily irritates psoriatic skin during the healing process. Extreme lubrication severely compromises basic upholstery friction.