

To avoid heating surrounding tissue, laser pulses must be shorter than the time it takes the target particle to cool down.

Ninja reflexes applied to thermodynamics.