Completely unopened and factory-sealed ink bottles can still harbor bacteria and infectious microorganisms.

The microscopic guest list is getting entirely out of control.