

Chloride ions from swimming pools attack the protective oxide film on stainless steel, causing it to dull and pit. Yelling at microscopic pool chemicals rarely restores mirror polishes.