Extremely small titanium dioxide particles used to lighten colours have been documented migrating from the dermis into regional lymph nodes.

The immune system elite delivery service accepts packages of all sizes.