

Certain widely used blue and green pigments are restricted from the market because they fail to meet strict cosmetic safety thresholds. Sunsets are just oceans that successfully passed regulatory audits.