

Safety alerts show that some professional tattoo inks arrive contaminated with pathogenic microorganisms before packaging is even opened.

The microbes clearly never skip leg day.