

Studios must actively provide safety information to professional clients if products contain substances of highly elevated concern.

Interpretive dance remains a legally grey compliance method.