

The restriction of specific blue and green pigments drastically reduced the spectrum of compliant colours available to artists.

The requested ocean experienced a sudden drought