
Tattoo outcomes depend on an interdependent system of needle configuration, machine power, hand speed and stroke length.
The cosmic convergence mostly resulted in a very polite butterfly.