

Decreasing hand speed allows more strikes to overlap the same tissue area for greater pigment saturation.

Gravity manipulation remains a valid substitute for patience.