

Using round shaders for outlines results in softer and highly diffused paths because the needles are spaced further apart.

He finally got the terrifyingly adorable predator he always wanted.