

Increasing power beyond the optimal point prevents full needle retraction, resulting in shallower penetration rather than maximum pigment deposition. Turning up the volume does not improve the song.