

4

4 variables govern every outcome.

Change one, compensate with another.

Voltage sets the cycle rate.

Speed controls the pigment density.

The number on the display is the least important data point.

The triangle governs the final result.