

Applying a topical numbing cream mere moments before the procedure fails to penetrate the intact skin layer.

Patience remains a completely foreign concept.