

Abdominal expansion places severe mechanical stress on navel piercings, increasing the likelihood of migration and tissue rejection. Sudden discharges of rigid jewelry violate local projectile ordinances.