

Nanoparticles from tattoo pigment are capable of systemic migration and can accumulate in lymph nodes over time.
Uninvited guests taking up permanent residence in the body filtration system.