Tattoo clearance is a prolonged biological process relying on cellular transport rather than just an immediate mechanical event.

Nature takes its sweet time.