

Tattoo pigment particles undergo a cycle of capture, release, and recapture over a 90 day interval.
True permanence is just a long series of very quick replacements.