

Trichloroacetic acid concentrations determine tissue effect.

Consumer creams cause superficial epidermal peeling.

Clinical applications require professional medical administration.

High acid concentrations carry scarring risks.

Chemical peels between 3 and 10 percent only affect the epidermis.
Do not use 15 to 35 percent acids for tattoo removal.