Extended supply lead times force a business to either hold more inventory or pay for emergency freight.

Waiting patiently is greatly improved by a sudden catastrophic delivery.