The route from factory to studio can add several layers of margin and handling.

The cardboard arrives carrying the deep emotional trauma of its long journey.