Iron oxide pigments can interact with magnetic resonance imaging fields and cause local artifacts or pigment migration.

Ferromagnetic brows have a strong attraction to modern medicine.