

Modern red azo pigments are disproportionately associated with delayed hypersensitivity and sustained inflammatory signaling in the dermis.

Some pigments just want to start a mosh pit in the immune system.