

A significant stiffness gap between rigid metal jewelry and soft tissue creates mechanical leverage that can provoke hypertrophic irritation during movement.

Anatomy always loses arguments with rigid levers.