

Even sealed commercial pigment bottles have occasionally been found to harbor microbial contamination from the manufacturing process.
Factory seals are just polite suggestions to airborne microbes.